2. How are the assessment/evaluation outcomes communicated and used in improving the performance of the students and curriculum transaction?

There are various devices which help in assessment outcomes to communicate and are used in improving the performance of students and curriculum transaction. Routine class tests are taken and answer sheets are given back by the subject teachers on same day so that students can make improvement out of it. Students are free to discuss their weaknesses and strong points regarding tests with subject teacher. Academic/Periodic tests are conducted by institutions and result of these tests are displayed on notice board. Students can note their results which help in their improvement. Meta cognitive exercise (Exam paper) is used to improve learning and achievement of individual learners.

House tests are held by institutions twice a year. In these after evaluation answer sheets are shown to the students, discussion is done and the doubts are clarified. Result is prepared in descending order of marks of students. Three lists are prepared first for all students' result, second list contain result of first twenty five students and third list display students having first three positions. This is a way to motivate students. Teachers discuss points with students about their (common and specific) weaknesses and strengths. Teacher gives direction for betterment of performance in next tests. Individual guidance is also provided. After these types of evaluation the students are divided into three categories high achiever, average achiever and low achiever. Low achiever students are given remedial teaching by respective teachers to overcome the difficulties. High achievers are guided to gain positions in University examinations. Average achievers are taught and motivated to excel as high achievers. Each year it is found that few students who were average in house tests later got merit positions in Universities. After these class tests are held again by institution to know the improvement level of students.
